a one of a kind book which provides a look into the closed world of the vatican in rome from the perspective of the first australian ambassador to the holy see tim fischer as the first australian ambassador to the holy see tim fischer is in the unique position of being able to tell what it is really like in the seat of power in rome here he reflects on his time in the vatican the details which made up his life the protocols the people and also on the role that religion still has to play in the lives of future generations appointed by kevin rudd in 2009 tim found himself in the singular world of vatican diplomacy where even more than most diplomatic circles the right word in the right ear is an essential artform and where the person sitting next to you at dinner could be colonel gadafi or the pope armed with the skills he learned as an activist politician and with his trusty black akubra tim learned to navigate this strange new world and has lived to tell the tale in june 1950 the north koreans invade south korea truman is reluctant to intervene but two weeks later a un resolution is passed setting up a unified command the south korean army and the hastily assembled and ill equipped american reinforcements from japan are driven back the war is transformed by general macarthur s amphibious assault the momentous decision is made to strike north across the 38th parallel towards the border with manchuria quite unexpectedly a new kind of war erupts as 1.3 million chinese troops pour over the border swamping un positions thus began the struggle which did not end until the armistice in 1953 and which saw the world teeter on the brink of a third world war to mark the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the first and only war fought by the united nations against a communist aggressor nation this book provides a gripping account of a conflict in a faraway peninsula where young men battled and often died for principles they barely understood
